Welcome to our annual Female Production Sale. The state has seen some ups and downs this year with some areas seeing large amounts of precipitation and then shutting off, some areas with good rainfall this fall and parts that have seen very little all year. Yet, we are experiencing an extremely strong cattle market from feeders to feds to bred cows. Here at SRS we had one of the driest years on record but even with that saw our calves within 5-15 lbs of normal. We believe this shows the consistency, productivity, and maternal strength of our cow herd.

While our immediate area saw a decline in hay production, the overall price of hay and forage has been steady or slightly lower. This stems from good production in nearby areas, but more importantly show the continued decline in cattle numbers. We believe this makes it a great time to invest in high quality program females that are going to return dividends for many years to come.

As always, we appreciate you taking the time to evaluate and consider SRS as your source for replacement females. We also want to thank all our previous customers for their support and confidence in our program. The light end of our calves at shipping this year were just over 735 lbs.

With a near record high percentage of heifers and heifer calves on feed coupled with an extremely low cattle inventory, we will continue to see a small U.S. cow herd. This will most certainly promote strong cattle prices in the foreseeable future. If it makes sense for your operation, now is an excellent time to add cows.

This set of females we are offering this year have been sorted and culled hard so that we only offer the best females that should go out and work for you without feet, udder, and disposition problems. Expect them to bring in big calves and breed back. Again, we culled almost 50 head off the bottom end to guarantee trouble free, sound, fertile females. Even with the drier weather we had a great breed up at over 98%.

Please feel free to call and ask any questions you may have about our offering. We look forward to seeing you on November 12.
